The 12-Week Quake-Ready Tracker™

Turn the System Into a 10-Minute-Per-Week Habit — With a Family Duty Roster

Why this worksheet exists: Every preparedness system fails the same way: it gets done once, feels great for a month, and quietly decays. Water expires unrotated, kids forget the drill, the go-bag becomes a bag of expired granola bars. This tracker turns QuakeReady™ into a maintained habit with assigned jobs, so it survives real life.

How to run it: Assign a “Quake Captain” for the week (rotate through household members — kids old enough to participate should take turns too). Each week has one small task, 10 minutes or less. Check it off. Rotate the captain. Repeat.

Weeks 1-4: Foundation Month

Week 1 — Captain: _____ - [] Complete the Home Hazard Hunt (Tool #2) if not already done - [] Confirm gas/water shutoff locations are known by every adult

Week 2 — Captain: _____ - [] Anchor the top 3 HIGH-priority items from the Hazard Hunt - [] Locate/store the shutoff wrench at the gas valve

Week 3 — Captain: _____ - [] Build/complete the 72-Hour Go-Bag (Tool #3) for every household member - [] Confirm the car kit is stocked

Week 4 — Captain: _____ - [] Run the full Drop, Cover, Hold On Drill (Tool #4), timed, in 3 rooms - [] Complete the Family Emergency Plan (Tool #5) — all sections filled in

Weeks 5-8: Reinforcement Month

Week 5 — Captain: _____ - [] Post the Aftershock & Post-Quake Safety Card (Tool #6) somewhere visible - [] Confirm the out-of-area contact still agrees to the role and has your info

Week 6 — Captain: _____ - [] Check water storage — any cloudiness or off-smell? Rotate if needed - [] Confirm all go-bag flashlights have working batteries

Week 7 — Captain: _____ - [] Review the Work/Car/Travel Playbook (Tool #7) — has anyone changed jobs, schools, or routines since the last review? - [] Test the battery/hand-crank radio

Week 8 — Captain: _____ - [] Send the practice check-in text to your out-of-area contact (unannounced, as part of a surprise mini-drill) - [] Check prescription medication dates in the go-bags

Weeks 9-12: Mastery Month

Week 9 — Captain: _____ - [] Run a surprise Drop, Cover, Hold On drill — no warning, see the real reaction time - [] Re-check any anchoring hardware installed in Week 2 — still secure?

Week 10 — Captain: _____ - [] Review the Family Emergency Plan with any household changes (new school year, new job, new pet) — update as needed - [] Confirm cash reserve in go-bags is still adequate

Week 11 — Captain: _____ - [] Full go-bag re-check: water dates, food dates, batteries, meds — top 3 items most commonly found expired - [] Ask kids to recite the family plan back in their own words

Week 12 — Captain: _____ - [] Run the full Drop, Cover, Hold On Drill one more time, in a 4th location (outdoors or car) to close out the quarter - [] Full system review: score yourself using the Mastery Scorecard below, then restart the cycle at Week 1 for the next quarter

The Mastery Scorecard (fill out at Week 12)

- 40-50: You are a genuinely quake-ready household. Maintain the quarterly cycle.
 - 25-39: Solid foundation, some gaps. Focus next quarter on your lowest category.
 - Under 25: You've made progress just by tracking — restart with Weeks 1-4 and focus on completion over perfection.

Pro Tips From the Field

1. Tie the weekly task to an existing habit — Sunday grocery trip, trash day, whatever already happens weekly. Piggyback the reminder onto it.
 2. Let kids be Quake Captain. Ownership of even a small task (checking flashlight batteries) builds real retention of the whole system.
 3. The surprise drills matter more than the scheduled ones. Real events don't announce themselves — Weeks 9 is deliberately unannounced for this reason.
 4. Don't skip weeks — shrink them instead. A 2-minute version of the task beats skipping it entirely; the habit is the point, not perfection.
 5. Screenshot or photograph your Week 12 scorecard each quarter — watching the score improve over a year is real, visible proof the system is working.

Your Next Step

You have the tracker. Now execute: assign Week 1's captain today and start the cycle. This is the tool that keeps all seven other tools alive instead of becoming another PDF you downloaded once and forgot.
